Atlantic Restaurant

What Is Josh doing?

Monday, November 12th, 2012.

Time: 6:30 10:30PM

Members: $115 Guests: $140

Space is very limited (FCFS)

Nathan Isberg, a bright young experimental Chef has located his new restaurant on Dundas Street West and this should come as no surprise. Nathan is a avant guard chef who opened a two-storey hot spot on Queen West to astounding reviews. They had called him The Wunderkind.

Isberg's kitchen at Coca dished out tapas and was the hottest spot in town.

His new place is anti-trendy unadorned, with plain wooden booths, dark walls hung with a few old shipping pictures and a framed kitchen window, as if saying, "here is where the art and magic happens."

Josh Josephson has pointed your IWFS to this restaurant and he thinks it is one of the more creative in the city. No one would ever argue with Josh on his culinary knowledge. Josh will address the assembled group with his commentary, speaking on a range of topics on the passion in his life. A menu will be posted when available. Space is limited you will be turned away if you did not book on a FCFS basis.

IW&FS 2012-2013 Planned Program

This is an indicator of the type of menu Nathan sees for the IWFS.

There is little hope of an exact menu much before the event. Nathan wanders the markets looking for fresh and only the best ingredients. You will be surprised and at the same time delighted.

Josh will speak on various topics throughout the meal. This is a first rate opportunity to get to know Josh Josephson a total gourmet icon. Trying to tie Josh down is hard but we have him for the dinner.
